DETAILED ACTION

This Office Action is in response to the amendment filed March 1, 2004 for the above identified patent application.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

1. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

2. Claims 1-4, 6, and 8-10 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Yamada (US Patent 6,240,796) in view of Nagai et al. (US Patent 5,747,896).

Yamada illustrates an actuator comprising: a frame; a driving source for generating a driving force; a feed screw shaft mechanism for transmitting said driving force of said driving source, said feed screw shaft mechanism being assembled into a single unit including a feed screw shaft and a feed screw nut and detachably installed to said frame; a slider having an opening for receiving said feed screw shaft and said feed screw nut therein; said slider being capable of reciprocating in an axial direction of said frame under an action of said driving force transmitted by said feed screw shaft mechanism; and a guide mechanism for guiding said slider when said slider is displaced along said frame, wherein said guide mechanism includes plates and covers which are connected to and move together with said slider, and ball return guides which are installed to side surfaces of said slider and accommodated within said covers wherein said feed screw nut, which is received in said opening, is a ball screw nut having a cylindrical section having a penetrating screw hole, and a pair of flange sections which are formed integrally at one end of said cylinder section and which are fixed to a side surface portion of said slider.

Yamada does not disclose the opening in the slider being formed as an upwardly oriented U-shaped section so the nut can be inserted into the slider from an upper side. The prior art to Nagai et al. teaches (Fig. 4) forming an upwardly oriented U-shaped section (150) in a slider (148) so a nut (152,154) can be inserted into the slider from an upper side. It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to modify the slider opening of Yamada et al. with a upwardly oriented U-shaped opening, as taught by Nagai et al., motivation being to facilitate in the assembly of the device and/or to reduce the amount of material needed in forming the slider.

Response to Arguments

3. Applicant's arguments with respect to the claims have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

Conclusion

4. Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
